

Play Pickleball at Bourne Rec Board Rotation System

- Everyone should put their own name on the board - This allows each member the ability to select the game they want to play in. If a member asks you to put their name on the board, you can do so only if you have their permission, and they are off the court.
- Your name can only be in one square at a time.
- You may choose to skip a square or more if you want to sit out.
- You may sign up with other player(s), if all players are off the courts and agree to play with you.
- When your "square" goes on a court, cross out that square on the whiteboard.
- The players in next square will play on the next empty court.
- That square must be filled before any other square can play.
- The winning team from a completed game gets to sign up first on the whiteboard after leaving the court.
- We suggest that the first player signing up indicates the play level of the game by writing "beginner," "intermediate," or "advanced" in the top right corner of the square. Please note that there may be occasions where skill levels are mixed. We ask that you remain understanding and courteous.
- If a foursome wants to sign up to play together, they can do so by putting their four names in a box, even if there is an incomplete box already on the board, however, that group may not go out ahead of anyone waiting for other players to complete their foursome (The only exception to this is if the people waiting give that group permission to go ahead.)
